TV movies By Mary Knoblauch

YCCCH! This week's TV movies are enough to make a person go back to reading. While some of them aren't bad, they have been shown so often as to be overexposed. The rest of the good ones have mostly suffered from editing to tit in commercials.

Tuesday and Wednesday, 3:30 p. m. (7)—"Ty-

Fine John Wayne film, and an interesting story.

Tuesday, 7:30 p. m. (7)—"Portrait of Jennie."

Would be first rate, if it weren't cut 10 minutes for the time slot.

Thursday, 10:30 p. m. (32)—"Separate Tables."
First rate performances, first rate movie, but in imminent danger of overexposure.

Saturday, 4 p. m. (2)—"The Macomber Affair."

Again, a 10-minute cut dims the pleasure of this

Hemingway-based film.

Saturday, 7 p. m. (9)—"The Day the Earth Caught

Exciting sci-fi.

Sensitive acting does well by a sensitive story

Camp Movies of the Week: Read on, hapless viewer.

Sunday, 5:30 p. m. (9)—"The Magnificent

Great film, but so overexposed, it needs a rest.

Sunday, 1:05 a.m. (7)—"Too Late Blues."

Only for those who like John Cassavettes' failures.

Monday, 10:30 p. m. (9)—"Anna Karenina."
For those who like Greta Garbo's failures.

JOSEPH COTTEN and January Jones are lovers in the memorable film romance, "Portrait of Jennie," to be telecast Tuesday on ABC's Movie Classics (7:30 p. m., channel 7).

Tuesday, 10:30 p. m. (32)—"Billy Liar."

Was fine the first 20 times around, but whimsey is as whimsey does.

Tuesday, midnight (2)—"The Shrike."

Some plays make great movies, Some should stay on the stage. This is one of the latter.

Thursday, 8:30 a. m. (7)—"The Mating Game."

Strictly for Tony Randall fans.

Campiest Movie of the Week: "Batman."

If you're nostalgic for low camp, catch this potboiler based on the fleeting success of the TV series. [Sunday, 8 p. m., channel 7]

For children

Sunday, 9:30 a. m. (9)—Untamed World: "Cats." Interesting essay on the cat family, including a look at pumas, domestic cats, lions, leopards, cheetahs and the caracel cat.

Sunday, 2 p. m. (11)—Milwaukee Circus Parade. For kids of all ages—a four-mile procession of authentic circus wagons, animals, characters and marching bands.

Sunday, 6:30 p. m. (5)—World of Disney: "Square Peg in a Round Hole."

Fun-filled lecture on human behavior by Prof. Ludwig Von Drake, aided by Donald Duck and his three nephews.

Monday, 6 p. m. (11)—National Water Safety

londay, 6 p. m. (11)—National Water Safety Test.

Never too young to learn about water safety!

Thursday, 6:30 p. m. (7)—Tom Jones at Fantasy Fair.

Only because The Muppets of Sesame Street are joining the Welshman.

It's cops and robbers time!

H OLLYWOOD-Television may be slow on the "law and order" issue, but it makes up for lost ground this fall with a shotgun burst of some 15 cops and robber shows spraying all over the schedule.

young man who falls for Rhods David Janssen goes straight as a T-agent, boxer Bob Conrad becomes a D. A., heefy Bill Conrad hangs out his private eve shingle, and hlind insurance investigator Jim Franciscus halne share the crime burden with Jim Arness Ray Burr and Efrem Zimbalist Jr.

Quinn Martin, action specialist behind The FRI and Bill Conrad's new Tuesday night private eye series. Cannon, sees no grand design behind the onslaught, "it just happened." His Dan August police series was on the ropes when the new CBS programmer. Fred Silverman. suggested Martin fit a series around fat man Bill Conrad who had just impressed with a powerful performance as a movie, "Brotherhood of the

TV bully in the network's

"I LOVE the idea." Martin replied, receptive to CBS interest, since all his brainstorms. The Fugitive, 12 O'Clock High, The Untouch-ables and The Invaders aired on ABC. Martin and execs gradually moved from a 'bigger-than-life" private eye concept to a slightly more realistic dimension making Cannon an ex-police detective, and a loner in the pilot. "The key is Conrad's personality. He has warmth. and we're going to play on it," said Martin. The producer also released a Vic Morrow-district attorney pilot that the network admired but dropped when kingpin William Paley picked the private eye and audience tests on Conrad ran higher. WHILE THE network lives and dies by tests, Martin takes a more detached attitude, saying "it's all right to use devices as a tool, but don't let the machines run you." He remembers "Fugitive" tests where audiences indicated dislike for the

Barry Morse character ABC worried over this until Martin pointed out the test was correct viewers were not supposed to like the true villain

Quinn's The FBI gears up for its seventh season, unperturbed by sniping at the department's peerless leader. Believing the general audi-ence likes and admires the agency, Martin will ignore minority beefs Meanwhile gentlemanly Efrem Zimbalist promotes the correct image and remains on call to mix with sponsors at important meetings.

SOMEHOW, handsome. sexy Rurt Reynolds failed to match Efrem's rapport with viewers in the producer's Dan August police series last fall, and a mid-season time change didn't work either. A charmer on talk shows Revnolds becomes more of a stoic in drama, and failed to come out of his shell as August. The special magic Martin hunts for in his leads didn't appear, yet the pro-ducer feels Reynolds will make it in something else. "We found the key to Bob Stack in The Untouchables says Quinn. "Vince Edwards captured it in Ben Casey, but not as a psychiatrist. A chemistry between star and character must occur, and often it's a matter of luck and experimentation."

THE producer is known in the business as a man who can read a script and quickly

"I really had a good feel for Incident in San Francisco. [a pilot seen on ABC's Movie of the Week]", said Quinn "It was a reporter show with Tim O'Connor, Chris Connelly, Richard Kiley and John Marley, where a newspaper gets behind a Good Samaritan. It was well-received, and I'm going to try and sell it again."

WITH two series in production, and commitments for movies at CRS and ARC if he can find the right material. Martin, as usual has his hands full. Material remains the basic problem, and the producer reads "a ton" to

In discussing the chances of film-oriented youth breaking through in television and motion pictures, Martin, the optimist, feels it is just a matter of time, but he has one reservation: "The kide don't read, and that bothers me, I had a boy working for me one summer who asked. 'what's the most important thing I can do for a television career?' I gave him a list of books."

There it is from the horse's mouth. Read your heart out kids, and then brighten the medium.
